For private individuals (an individual buying insurance wholly or mainly for purposes unrelated to their trade, business or profession), you must advise us immediately of any matter which may affect our assessment of your insurance or if at any time any of the information on which this insurance is based is incorrect or changes. For example changes in condition, value, mooring, attempts to sell or usage of the insured property or anyone covered by this insurance is convicted of an offence. Failure to disclose fully and truthfully all relevant information may invalidate this insurance. If you are in doubt about any change, you should disclose them. You should keep a record of all information supplied to us for the purposes of entering into this contract. In the event of insurance being effected, it is important to consider this form in conjunction with the conditions of the policy as the latter may contain exclusions, warranties or provisions, which override anything, stated on this form.

If you are in doubt as to whether facts are material, you should disclose them. In the event of insurance being effected, it is important to consider this form in conjunction with the conditions of the policy as the latter may contain exclusions, warranties or provisions, which override anything, stated on this form.
